A NEW SEASON OF BIRD WATCHING!

CHANGES!

Changes are happening all the time. Our lives are full of changes, some good some not so good. Changes are inevitable some are big some small, some important some not so, and most of the time we have no control over them. Kathy and I went looking for a new car last month. We were looking for a new or slightly used (Excuse me....pre-owned!) Ford Edge or Explorer. We went to a couple of Ford dealers (Excuse me again....Ford Stores) and talked with the "Sales Consultants" (I almost said salesmen). That's when I really started to notice something about the new and used cars on the lot. Other than Mustangs, I don't think there was a single car of any make or model that I would considered a classic in twenty or thirty years.

To add to the problem, I don't see the opportunity for young people, on their own, to develop the skills needed for working on their own cars in the back yard. The hi-tech electronics throughout the cars the cost of equipment and commitment to do-it-yourself will cause the hobby to change. Some people will say, "Nonsense, these kids all no computers". Well it's not the same. We all started out changing oil, plugs, and points and adjusting carburetors before we went on to brake-jobs, adjusting valves and timing before finally advancing to rebuilding engines and transmissions. We got a job after school, pumping gas at the local gas station to learn from the old mechanics that new ever car and the problems each make was prone too. "Well they have Tech Schools now that teach the kids all that stuff and they become Technicians", that is true, they become specialists on parts of the car but it is impossible to know each car and model the way the old Mechanic did. Maybe I'm wrong or overreacting, but that's my view.

Speaking of changes, as you know, elections for officers were held at our last meeting and I would like to congratulate Ed Lindberg on being elected president. Rick Bowes declined the nomination for the position. The rest of the officers remain the same. This will be Ed's second time as president he held the position from 2010 to 2011.

2013 FALCON MIGRATION TO TULSA OKLAHOMA

Hello One, and All!

It is finally time for the grand announcement and plans, for the 2013 running of the world famous Falcon Migration! This year it will be on the Mother Road- US Route 66. As most of you know, this year's FCA Convention is in Tulsa Oklahoma, which is on Route 66, so we will be starting our trek in beautiful downtown Chicago at the northern and eastern terminus of Route 66. We will take three days to travel to Tulsa and then for the brave and "un-time constrained" among us, we will continue all the way to the western terminus of Route 66 at the Santa Monica pier in California. Hotels have been arranged with group price discounts, a route plan has been selected, and all you need to do is come along!

Starting date is July 7, 2013 in Chicago. The reason for this day/date is because it is a Sunday and Sunday appears to be the only day of the week you can actually drive thru downtown Chicago and have the drive take less than 8 hours! I have a hotel arranged about 19 miles north of the starting point in Chicago for the night before-July 6. We will take three days to travel to Tulsa. These will be three very easy, short distance days, allowing us to see and experience the Route 66 experience. This makes for the Migration to get to Tulsa on Tuesday July 9. So plan your Convention hotel reservations accordingly!

Our Route book for this year's escapade is the "EZ 66 Guide for Travelers" written by Jerry McClanahan. This is an exceptionally well-written book that gives turn-by-turn driving instructions, as well as huge amounts of insights, places to go, things to see. I am fluent enough in 66 driving directions, having grown up in southern California, that I know Mr. McClanahan has his directions correct. AND there is a third edition of the book, just released on February 16 2013, with all the latest openings and closings. The book is available online at www.national66.org for $17.95 but we are putting together a "group discount" rate to buy a larger amount for $10.95. We need to buy at least 10 copies and in increments of 5 copies. Both costs are plus shipping.

We will gather in Chicago on Saturday July 6. The hotel is a Holiday Inn Express in Rosemont Illinois, near O'Hare airport. 20 rooms are being held for the Falcon Club of America at rates of $89 for single king and $99 for two Queens. Call 847-544-7500 and make sure to mention FCA.

Day number one will start in Grant Park on Lakeshore Dr at Jackson Blvd, the start of Route 66. The day will bring us to Lincoln, Illinois, a distance of not much more than 150 miles. We will have plenty of time to stop and take in the sights there is much to see. The day will end at another Holiday Inn Express in Lincoln. The FCA rate is $74 plus tax for either king or queen rooms. Call 217-735-5800 and mention FCA.

Monday July 8 has the cruise moving into Missouri after we navigate our way thru St Louis. Those of you who made the Hwy 50 Migration in 2005 will recognize some of the roads we travel. We end the day in Springfield MO and our night will be spent in a genuine old Route 66 motel, built in 1938. The Route 66 Rail Haven Best Western Motel has the old look with modern conveniences and BREAKFAST! We have an FCA rate of $75 plus tax for king or queen rooms. Call 417-866-1963 and mention FCA.

Tuesday July 9 gets us into Tulsa and the convention site. All three days will be relatively short mileage-wise, with plenty of time to stop and sightsee. The author of our route guide has a gallery in Chandler OK, about an hour west of Tulsa on Route 66. On Wednesday, we will take a day drive down to his gallery.

After the convention is over on Sunday July 14 those who are up for the western drive will meet and head into the sunset. I have made no reservations at this time but I do have ideas about places and daily distances. For any interested in either part of this Migration PLEASE get in touch at megarrett35@msn.com or at (240)489-3422.

THE REST OF THE STORY

By Ray Chevalier

I got the title from the Old Radio Personality Paul Harvey, but it's fitting for this article. Some of you may remember me writing a story a few years ago called "Chasing a Dream" in which I told about buying a 65 Ranchero and taking it to Antique Automotive Club of America (AACAA) meets and being far more successful than I ever expected. When I wrote that article I had reached the third level of the AACAA's award structure which is a 1st place Grand National Award. Since that time the Ranchero has reached the highest level called the Senior Grand National Award.

At this point I knew that I had surpassed all expectations, but it was nice to know that my little red Ranchero was good enough to compete at that level. At AACAA Meets they have a committee that goes around looking for vehicles that stand out, and they nominate these vehicles for what they call a National Award.

In the fall of 2011 I received a letter stating that my Ranchero had been nominated for such an award, the Committee would meet, and I would be notified of the results. This means that out of all the trucks that entered all of the AACAA Meets during the year, which numbers in the hundreds, they had picked 10 or 12 for this consideration. Well the Ranchero was not chosen, but just to be considered was a great honor.

So, now for "The Rest of the Story." I brought the Ranchero to Florida last fall and while at a show a person approached me and asked if I was interested in selling the Ranchero. In Florida, Falcons are rare and Rancheros are very rare. He stated he had one just like mine and had looked a long time, and was never able to find another. I told him to make me an offer that I couldn't refuse; which he did. I told him I would give it some serious thought and get back to him. The following weekend I went to a Ford Show at the Edison and Ford Summer Estate in Ft. Myers FL. This is where Henry Ford and Thomas Edison spent their summers, years ago. This is the most prestigious real estate in the area. While at the show the same gentleman came up to me and said he had brought his wife to look at the Ranchero. She approved and he asked if the deal was still on. I said yes it was. He then said he only lives 3 houses down the street. The next day I deliverer the Ranchero and when I drove into his driveway I saw a home that I would guess was worth well in the millions. He said that he is a private collector and wanted my Ranchero for his collection.

As much as it hurt to see it go, I know it will spend its life in a good place. The Ranchero took us to a lot of locations on the east coast in pursuit of my longtime dream. It brought us great joy and we met a lot of wonderful people along the way. After all that's what life is all about. So, that's the rest of my Ranchero story, and I am sticking with it!

History of the Ford Blue Oval Logo

The logo Ford has used to market the Ford brand has gone through some changes over the years. Today, we all recognize it, as the Blue Oval, but it wasn't always that way.

In the very beginning there was a complicated, oddly design that included a "Detroit - Mich." tag and spelled out "Ford Motor Co.

In 1912, the Ford logo made a complete change over to a very simplistic oval design.

The famous Blue Oval with the two ring blue and white border finally came around in 1928. It set the basic shape and color of future Ford logos, although it was much "fatter" than the current logo.

This next blue oval does not have an exact date of release, but it was used throughout the years leading up to the Centennial logo. It was a longer, thinner version of the logo used from 1928 through 1960. This longer, thinner, logo started about 1961, at least by the time the '62 model year was introduced, according to some magazine ads from that time.

This last logo is the blue oval that Ford released in 2003 in honor of the 100 years Ford Motor Company had been around. It was named the "Centennial Blue Oval" and has a slight gradient to give it a 3D effect and a three-ring border of silver, blue, and white.
